Hence, Mainrky's swift drops stood no show withhim whatever, and he repeatedly called balls on them which should have come as strikes. gone as strikes.

RANK DECISION Then in the sixth inning, with two men out and one run in, Dahlen, while stealing third, was put out three feet from the bag, but was declared safe, and this mistake cost four runs, a storm of batting following close upon its beels, which measured the distance between defeat and victory for the home team. Even the Chicago players admitted after the game that Dahlen was out. The old gentleman's attention was so completely occupied with keeping track of his indicator that many points escaped his notice, among them cutting the ball with the spikes, which was twice worked Setting aside Mr. Galvin's share in the introversy, the Colts had all the best of things up to the seventh inning.

Griffith was hot stuff, and was putting the balls over the plate in most deceptive fashion, against which the Sentors could make no headway, while tocksdale was rather an easy mark. In the six innings the home batters suc-ceeded in placing the ball safely only half a dozen times, while the Chicagos had fourteen hits to their credit.

Unhappily, under the rules, these hits and the runs earned by them must go against the record of Malarky, who came into the game in the fifth inning, and who, with an umpire who could see a drop ball would have made a very different showing.

In the seventh inning the locals finding in the seventh inning the long hits comthemselves unable to make long hits com-menced to bunt the ball, with immediate good results, and three runs were scored in that iming.
Griffith seemed to lose some of his cunning about this time, and a shorter lead against the home team might have been

After Mainrky had been put to sleep in the sixth Boyd went into the box, and his left-hand curves and excellent control proved so puzzling to the Coits that they went out in order for the two innings in which they faced him. EVERY SENATOR PLAYED. A peculiar feature of the game was that every man on the Washington payroll except Mercer got into the game, Anderson and Mahoney taking part as emergency hitters, with the usual result in Anderson's case, but Mahoney looped a nice hit into left that helped score the last run.

Glassock and Crooks had most of the work to do and got into two very lively harder, Kittridge and Dahlen had three singles and Everett's ticket cails for a double, triple and single in four times up. Dahlen and Stewart made all the errors, but they killed about a dozen promising hits between them.

RETIRED WITHOUT SCORING.

No Senator touched base in the first inning, and the Chicagos, though leading off with two sharp hits, were retired without scoring on Stocksdales good handling of Wilniot's bunt and a double play on Lange and Anson.

Kittridge got away with an infield hit to Joyce's territory, but was doubled up with Griffith ou the latter's hit to Crooks. Ryan hit to right and Dahlen to

Dablen stole second and third, the latter being by grace of Mr. Galvin, and should have been the third out. Wilmot got a base on balls and then the diamond was a symphony in light blue for about five min-Auson drove a two-bagger beyond Sel-

Auson drove a two-barger beyond Selbach, Lange worked another to the right feuce, and Everett's bail was not returned till the batter was on third. All this resulted in five runs.

Then Boyd came at the scene and the batting of the visitors came to an end.

TALENT TURNED BANKERS

They Won All the Bookies' Money. at St. Asaph.

EVERYTHING CAME THEIR WAY

Five Straight Favorites and a Second Choice Went to the Credit of the Crowd-Heart-Breaking Finishes in the First and Fifth Races-Little

The talent didn't do a thing to the bookies at St. Asaph yesterday! They only rooted in five straight favorites and a well played second choice, and when the gentlemen of odds descended from their stands they breathed a sigh of re-lief and thanked their stars that there had been only six races on the card. The first and fifth races furnished finishes that were simply heart-breaking. The fifth, between Con Lucy and Tancred, was the best of the day, and the victory of the former was due to the superior jockeyship and headwork of little "Dink" Donnelly. Neary had the mount of Tompkins'

Neary had the mount of fompone horse, and, awinging into the stretch a length to the good, could not possibly have lost if he had not gone wide. Neary has been riding some good races of inte, but he must have lost his head yesterday when he let Con Lucy get through.

"DINK'S" CLEVER RIDE.

DINK'S" CLEVER RIDE.

Donnelly was shut out on the turn, and seeing that he could not go around his field he pulled to the inner rail and took his chances at getting through. "Dink" is a favortie with the patrons of the across-the-river tracks, and he has a great following. He is an honest boy and has never been known to do anything crooked. If he is ever on a "dead un" it is a thousand to one that the horse is the lobster and not the boy.

The first favorite to win was Fox Glove, and he was quoted at 7 to 5 when the horses went to the post. Lotion was played down from 5 to 3 to 1. Carnecus was the first to get away, and led to the far turn, where he dropped back and Fox Glove took command and lasted long enough to win in a hard drive by a half length from Lotion.

Sir William was the favorite in the two-year-old race with Miss Bowser at not the boy.

two-year-old race with Miss Bowser at 2 to 1. She was backed down from sixes. 2 to 1. Sai was barner sir William went out, and, making all the running, won casily by two lengths. LED ALL THE WAY.

The third race looked a cinch for Little Jim and be was made a 1 to 4 chance, with takers even at those short odds. He beat the flag and it was all over. At the up, with Pattie second and the Snake third.

The bookies offered 8 to 5 sgainst Fagin at the opening, but it was jumped on so quickly that even money was the best obtainable at the close. He was out in front the whole trip, winning in a gallop from Imp. Bones, who was a length before Tom Tough.

Tancred and Con Lucy both closed at twos in the fifth race, with Halcyon at 7 to 2. The two favorites were the first

7 to 2. The two favorites were the first away and they alternated in the lead to the stretch, where Donnelly squeezed Con Lucy through on the rail and in a hard finish worth by a short head.

The closing event went to Marie Lovell, who was a well-played second choice, Fistery being favorite at even money. Donnelly got off in front with Lovell, and, staying there to the end, won easily by two lengths.
